Gray, Gray & Gray News - Transaction Advisory Services

Cyber Security is a Must for Remote Workers

Many businesses have had staff members working from home for a year. For most, the transition from office to home was rapid, and likely included many shortcuts and "temporary" adjustments. Remote working also presents an increased danger of cyberattacks from hackers and online criminals. Without the protection of a robust office firewall and secure network, sensitive information was traveling over public wi-fi that was unsecured and ripe for a data breach. If you have staff members who continue to work remotely, or if the work-from-home environment is one that will become a permanent or part-time option, you need to ramp up your efforts to secure communications from home to office.
