Value Your Business Internally and Externally

Should I stay or should I go? At some point in time, every family business owner must confront this difficult decision. When deciding whether to keep the company, sell it or pass it on to a family member, a professional business valuation is critical. This article explains the difference between internal (investment) value and external (fair market) value.

Testing to Screen Out Reckless Employees

Accidents happen. That's a fact of life. But the last thing any employer needs is to hire someone who has a high likelihood of being involved in or creating safety issues on the job. We've all known at least one person who seems to attract such problems. We sometimes call them "accidents waiting to happen." Smart companies do their best to avoid employing them. Here are some ways.

Fixing 401(k) Plan Errors Without IRS Involvement: What Employers Should Know

The question we'll answer in this article is:

Our company recently began offering a 401(k) plan. We know mistakes can happen. We heard about an IRS program that allows plan sponsors to fix mistakes. Are there some errors we can correct without the IRS being involved?
